ABSTRACT

This manual was produced to familiarize data users with the procedures followed in data collection and processing of the fifth follow-up survey of the National Longitudinal Survey of the High School Class of 1972 (NLS-72) and to provide documentation for use of the file. The data file is a computerized data base, which is available on magnetic tape from the Center for Education Statistics. A total of 12,841 persons returned the follow-up questionnaires, and the data file consists of 14,489 records (a response rate of 89 percent). The manual refers to each item of data by its Statistical Analysis System (SAS) variable name as defined in the SAS and SPSS-X (Statistical Programs for the Social Sciences) control cards provided in the data file. Chapter 7 and Appendix C of the manual are designed to give the user essential information to begin using the data file immediately. Other appendices contain the survey questionnaire, codes used in data collection, and the data layout. (SLD)

Acknowledgments

The authors wish to thank all those persons who contributed to the production of this manual.

Members of NORC's NLS-72 staff contributed at various stages. Harrison Greene, Michael Sullivan, Katherine Richardson, and Mark Wojcik carefully documented procedures during the data collection and data preparation phases of the project. Tucker Landy, Jim Wolfe, and Peggy Mikros in NORC's Center for Computing and Information Services put forth considerable effort in generating descriptions, appendices, and the codebook. Special thanks go to Susan Campbell, who carried out a meticulous and thoughtful editing of the text.

Our appreciation is also extended to Marilyn Ford for her patience and thoroughness in the production of the manuscript and to Shirley Knight for her care in reviewing the final product.

We would like to acknowledge SPSS, Inc. for the use of the source code for the frequencies procedures of release 9. This made it possible to generate a codebook with weights applied only to the column of valid percentages.

Finally, we would also like to thank those members of the CES staff who have worked closely with us on this project: C. Dennis Carroll, Chief, Longitudinal Studies Branch, and Carl Schmitt, Statistician.

FOREWORD

This manual has been produced to familiarize data users and others with the procedures followed for data collection and processing of the fifth follow-up survey of the National Longitudinal Survey of the High School Class of 1972 (NLS-72), and to provide necessary documentation for use of the fifth follow-up data file. The base year through fourth follow-up surveys are documented separately in Riccobono, J.; Henderson, L.B.; Burkheimer, G.J.; Place, C.; and Levinsohn, J.R., National Longitudinal Study: Base Year (1972) through Fourth Follow-Up (1979) Data File User's Manual, Vols. 1, 2, and 3 (Washington D.C.: Center for Education Statistics, U.S. Department of Education, 1981). The fifth follow-up data can be merged easily with data from prior waves, and researchers wishing to use such data will need to obtain the data and the user's manual from CES. For analysts who intend to use only the fifth follow-up data, the user's manual for the earlier waves provides valuable information and background on the NLS-72 database.

As part of the NLS-72 survey, a Teaching Supplement questionnaire was sent to all persons who had teaching experience or had been trained for teaching. The data for this supplement are available on a separate tape and documented in the NLS-72 Fifth Follow-Up (1986) Teaching Supplement User's Manual. Both are available from CES.

Using the fifth follow-up data tape does not require the analyst to be a statistician or sophisticated computer programmer. Most social scientists and policy analysts should find the tape organized and equipped in a manner that facilitates straightforward production of statistical summaries and analyses. This manual provides extensive documentation of the contents of the data file and how to use them. Chapter 7 and appendix C, in particular, contain essential information for the user so that he or she can get underway quickly and with minimal startup costs. A careful reading of chapter 7 and appendix C will help users to avoid common mistakes that result in costly computer job failures or incorrect results.

In addition, the user should be aware that CES and NORC have constructed four new composite variables and have copied nine composites from the base year through fourth follow-up data file. These can be used in substantive analyses to control for numerous demographic and educational factors. Researchers may wish to use these wherever possible in order to save time and eliminate the need for complicated programming. They are described in chapter 7.

The rest of the manual provides information on the origin of the surveys, the various components, methods used, and so forth. Chapter 1 begins with the history and background of the study and a description of the Longitudinal Studies Program at the Center for Education Statistics. Chapter 2 contains a general description of the survey questionnaire. The sample design for the fifth follow-up is described in chapter 3. Greater detail on the sample design, weighting procedures, sampling errors, and analyses of nonresponse patterns can be found in the NLS-72 Fifth Follow-Up Sample Design Report, which is available from CES.

Data collection procedures, schedules, and results are presented in chapter 4. Chapter 5 describes data control and preparation activities such as monitoring receipt of questionnaires, editing and coding, and fail-edit callbacks to respondents. Data processing, including the conversion of questionnaire data to machine readable form, machine editing, and construction of the merged, clean data tapes is the subject of chapter 6. Finally, chapter 7 describes the organization and contents of the data file and gives important hints and suggestions for using them.

The appendices include the questionnaire; codes used for occupation and industry, schools attended, fields of study, states, and relationships; guidelines for SAS users; and the data layout. The last segment of the manual is the codebook for the fifth follow-up data.

1. INTRODUCTION

The fifth follow-up survey of the National Longitudinal Study of the High School Class of 1972 (NLS-72) took place during spring and summer of 1986. A mail questionnaire was sent to a subsample of 14,489 members of the original sample of 22,652. A total of 12,841 persons returned the questionnaire, for a response rate of 89 percent. By the time of the survey, the sample members averaged 32 years of age and had been out of high school for 14 years.

In order to take advantage of the efficiencies offered by the simultaneous administration of two surveys, the fifth follow-up was designed to be carried out along with the third follow-up of High School and Beyond. Hence, activities for the two surveys were carried out in parallel during all phases of survey design and implementation, including instrument development, field testing, data collection, data processing, and construction of data files.

The fifth follow-up survey marked the first time that NORC conducted the NLS-72 survey. Educational Testing Service (ETS) was responsible for the base year survey, and Research Triangle Institute (RTI) carried out the first through fourth follow-up surveys.

The Center for Education Statistics (CES) has been the primary sponsor of the NLS-72 surveys. However, as the sample has become older, agencies outside the Department of Education have taken a stronger interest in the database. The fifth follow-up survey offered the opportunity to gather information on experiences and attitudes of a sample for whom an extensive history already existed. Consequently, four groups provided supplementary funding.

The National Science Foundation (NSF) provided support for a supplementary survey of all of NLS-72 sample members who had obtained teaching certification and/or who had teaching experience. A separate questionnaire, the Teaching Supplement, was mailed to eligible respondents. In addition, several items were added to the main questionnaire to obtain information on people's attitudes towards the teaching profession.

The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD) provided funds to add about ten pages of questions on marital history, divorce, child support, and economic relationships in modern families.

A grant from the Spencer Foundation permitted the inclusion of a series of attitude questions relating to self-esteem, job satisfaction, satisfaction with school experiences, and participation in community affairs. These items had all been in prior rounds of the survey.

Finally, the Graduate Management Admissions Council (GMAC) supported a sequence of questions in the education section of the questionnaire aimed at understanding the kinds of individuals who apply for and matriculate to graduate management programs.

1.1 The CES Longitudinal Studies Program: Overview

The mandate of the Center for Education Statistics, formerly the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES), includes the responsibility to "collect and disseminate statistics and other data related to education in the United States" and to "conduct and publish reports on specific analyses of the meaning and significance of such statistics" (Education Amendments of 1974 - Public Law 93-380, Title V, Section 501, amending Part A of the General Education Provisions Act).

Consistent with this mandate and in response to the need for policy-relevant, time-series data on nationally representative samples of high school students, CES instituted the National Education Longitudinal Studies (NELS) program, a continuing long-term project. The general aim of the NELS program is to study longitudinally the educational, vocational, and personal development of high school students and the personal, familial, social, institutional, and cultural factors that may affect that development.

The overall NELS program utilizes longitudinal, time-series data in two ways: (1) each of several cohorts is surveyed at regular intervals over a span of years, and (2) comparable data are obtained from successive cohorts, permitting studies of trends relevant to educational and career development and societal roles. Thus far, the NELS program consists of three major studies: The National Longitudinal Study of the High School Class of 1972 (NLS-72), High School and Beyond (HS&B), and the National Education Longitudinal Study of 1988 (NELS:88).

The first major study, NLS-72, began with the collection of comprehensive base year survey data from approximately 19,000 high school seniors in the spring of 1972. The NLS-72 first follow-up survey in the spring of 1973 added to the sample nearly 4,500 individuals who did not participate at the time of the base year survey. Three more follow-up surveys were conducted in the fall and winter of 1974, 1976, and 1979, using a combination of mail surveys and personal and telephone interviews.

The second major survey, HS&B, was designed to inform Federal and State policy in the decade of the 1980s. HS&B began in the spring of 1980 with the collection of base year questionnaire and test data on over 58,000 high school seniors and sophomores. The first follow-up survey was conducted in the spring of 1982, and the second follow-up survey in the spring of 1984. The HS&B third follow-up survey was conducted concurrently with the NLS-72 fifth follow-up in the spring and summer of 1986.

The four survey cohorts (the NLS-72 seniors, the HS&B seniors and sophomores, and the NELS:88 8th graders) are displayed in Figure 1, according to their actual or planned survey years and their modal age at the time of each survey. As shown, the NLS-72 seniors were first surveyed in 1972 at age 18 and have been resurveyed five times since, with the last survey occurring in 1986 when these young adults were about 32 years of age. The HS&B cohorts have been surveyed at points in time that would permit as much comparison as possible with the time points selected for NLS-72. This design makes possible three types of comparison.

First, the three cohorts can be compared on a time-lag basis (intercohort or intergenerational). For example, the high school seniors of 1972 and the high school seniors of 1980 and 1982 can be compared to determine changes over time in the composition, distribution, and needs of high school seniors.

Second, fixed-time comparisons can be undertaken. For a given year, the data collection for each cohort can be viewed as a cross-sectional study. It is possible, for example, to compare employment rates in 1986 of 22-, 24-, and 32-year-olds.

The third type of analysis is longitudinal (within cohort) and is designated in Figure 1 by the diagonal lines. Because the history of the age cohort can be taken into account and modeled, analyses can be designed that isolate school and program effects from the effects of differential life experiences.

1.2 The History of NLS-72

In 1968, NCES conducted a survey to determine the specific data needs of educational policy makers and researchers. Respondents to the survey expressed a need for data that would allow comparisons of student educational and vocational experiences with later outcomes. This finding provided the impetus for CES to begin planning for the first of an intended series of national longitudinal studies.

1.2.1 The Base Year Survey

Following an extensive period of planning, which included the design and field test of survey instrumentation and procedures, the base year survey was initiated in the spring of 1972. The sample design called for a deeply stratified national probability sample of 1,200 schools with 18 seniors per school, school size permitting. A total of 19,001 students from 1,061 high schools provided base year data on up to three data collection forms: a Test Battery, a School Record Information Form, and a Student Questionnaire. The student questionnaire was completed by 16,683 seniors.

1.2.2 The First Follow-Up Survey

The first follow-up survey was conducted from October 1973 to April 1974. Added to the base year sample were 4,450 1972 high school seniors from 257 additional schools that did not participate earlier. The addition of this group was meant to compensate for school nonresponse in the base year. First follow-up forms were mailed to 22,654 students and obtained from 21,350 by mail, telephone interview, or personal interview. Sample members were asked about their location in October 1973 and what they were doing with regard to work, education, and/or training. Similar information was requested for the same time period in 1972 to facilitate tracing of respondents' progress since they left high school and to define the factors that might have affected that progress. Retrospective information on some base year variables was requested from those added to the sample at this time. The first follow-up sample retention rate among the 16,683 seniors completing the base year questionnaire was 93.7 percent.

1.2.3 The Second Follow-Up Survey

The second follow-up survey was conducted from October 1974 to April 1975, with forms mailed to 22,364 sample members. The information requested was similar to that in the first follow-up, but for the new time point, with some new questions regarding work and education included. Concurrent with the second follow-up, a special retrospective survey was conducted (using an Activity State Questionnaire) to obtain key activity status information about prior time points from those who had not provided this information previously. Second follow-up questionnaires were obtained from 20,872 sample members by mail, telephone interview, or personal interview. Among the 21,350 persons who completed the first follow-up questionnaire, sample retention rate for the second follow-up was 94.6 percent.

1.2.4 The Third Follow-Up Survey

The third follow-up survey was conducted from October 1976 to May 1977. Third follow-up forms were mailed to 21,807 sample members, and 20,092 third follow-up questionnaires were obtained by mail, telephone interview, or personal interview. The information collected included respondent status in October 1976, as well as for October of the intervening year (1975), and summaries of experiences and activities since the previous follow-up. The third follow-up sample retention rate for second follow-up respondents was 93.9 percent.

1.2.5 The Fourth Follow-Up Survey

The fourth follow-up survey was conducted from October 1979 to May 1980, with fourth follow-up questionnaires sent to 20,862 sample members and obtained from 18,630 by mail, telephone interview, or personal interview. Some 5,548 of these individuals were also asked to complete a Supplemental Questionnaire. Like the Activity State Questionnaire used in the second follow-up, this instrument was designed to collect key work and educational history data that had been requested but not obtained in prior follow-ups. Additionally, a subsample of 2,648 persons was retested during the fourth follow-up on a subset of the base year test battery.

The fourth follow-up questionnaire requested summaries of educational and occupational activities and experiences since the previous follow-up, including status at the time points of October 1977, 1978, and 1979. Given the time since high school graduation for these respondents, some emphasis was placed on other activities (e.g., family formation, political participation) in the fourth follow-up instrument. Fourth follow-up sample retention among the third follow-up respondents was 90.8 percent. At the conclusion of fourth follow-up activities, a total of 12,980 individuals had provided information on all questionnaires (base year and all four follow-up studies), representing 78 percent of the 16,683 base year respondents. As a result of the various retrospective data collection efforts, the number of individuals with some key data elements for all time points is 16,450. This represents 73 percent of the 22,652 respondents who participated in at least one survey.

1.3 The Postsecondary Education Transcript Study

Although the NLS-72 follow-up surveys collected longitudinal data on postsecondary educational activities of sample members, the kinds and quantity of information collected on course-taking patterns and on grades, credits, and credentials earned have been limited by the survey methodology and respondents' ability to recall details of their educational experiences.

To overcome these weaknesses and to provide a rich resource for the analysis of occupational and career outcomes, the Postsecondary Education Transcript Study was conducted in 1984. Transcripts were collected from academic and vocational postsecondary education institutions that respondents had reported attending. The transcripts were coded and converted to machine-readable form, allowing the data to be merged with questionnaire data and used to support powerful quantitative analyses of the impacts of postsecondary schooling. Information on the transcripts data file and associated documentation can be obtained from CES.

2. DATA COLLECTION INSTRUMENTS

The questionnaire for the NLS-72 fifth follow-up survey was designed to be self-administered like its predecessors in the first through fourth follow-ups, and contained many of the same items found in the fourth follow-up questionnaire and in the questionnaire for the third follow-up of the High School and Beyond survey. It asked the respondents to update background information and to provide new information about their work experiences, employment histories, education and other training, family status, income, and opinions on a range of topics. An event history format was used to obtain information about jobs held, schools attended, periods of unemployment, and marriage and divorce patterns.

The GMAC supplement added questions on applying to graduate school, taking standardized graduate tests, applying and enrolling in graduate management programs, and employment after finishing a graduate degree in business. The Spencer Foundation supported the reinstatement of attitude questions that had been in prior waves of NLS-72. These included items on job satisfaction, satisfaction with schooling, political participation, participation in voluntary groups, and self esteem. Family status questions were greatly extended by the NICHD supplement. Respondents provided a detailed history of marriage(s), divorce, age and sex of children, and whether the children were born to them, adopted, step- or foster children. In addition, there were questions on child support and custody arrangements. Respondents also provided information on the sharing of expenses within their households and economic transfers from one household to another.

NSF funded several pages of questions about the incentives and disincentives of entering the teaching profession, perceptions of teacher quality and shortages, and possible solutions to attracting qualified teachers. Moreover, NSF supported a separate questionnaire, the Teaching Supplement, which was mailed to all respondents who indicated on the main questionnaire that they had some teacher training and/or experience teaching. This instrument was designed to collect information on teachers' qualifications, teaching experience, educational background, and plans for remaining in or leaving teaching. Teachers were asked to indicate their level of satisfaction with their career and whether they were likely to remain in the field. Those who had left teaching provided information on the jobs and activities they pursued after leaving teaching. For detailed information, see the NLS-72 Fifth Follow-Up Teaching Supplement Data File User's Manual, which is available from CES.

Fifty-six items in the fifth follow-up questionnaire were designated as "critical questions" for editing purposes; these are noted in appendix A, which includes a copy of the entire questionnaire. A comprehensive list is provided in appendix B.1. Respondents who omitted one of these critical items (or who provided inconsistent or invalid responses to them) were contacted by telephone to provide the missing data (or resolve the inconsistencies).

3. SAMPLE DESIGN AND IMPLEMENTATION

The fifth follow-up sample retains the basic sample design of the base year through fourth follow-up surveys. The fifth follow-up may thus be regarded as a stratified two-stage probability sample of persons who were students in U.S. schools that contained 12th graders in the 1971-72 academic year. The first stage consists of the 1,318 schools selected from 608 strata in the base year (600) and first follow-up (8). The second stage for the fifth follow-up consists of 14,489 persons who had been seniors in those schools.

All sample members who participated in at least one of the five previous waves had a non-zero probability of appearing in the fifth follow-up; individuals who did not participate in any of the previous waves were excluded from the fifth follow-up. Sample members who belonged to groups of special policy interest were retained with certainty. In general, other persons were retained with probability less than one.

This section briefly reviews the sample design for the base year through fourth follow-up surveys and then describes the sample design for the fifth follow-up survey in more detail.

3.1 Base Year Through Fourth Follow-Up Sample Design

The sample design for the base year survey was a stratified two-stage probability sample. In the first stage of sample selection, schools were sampled without replacement from 600 strata. The strata were based on the following variables: type of control (public or private), geographic region, enrollment size, geographic proximity to institutions of higher education, proportion minority group enrollment (for public schools), income level of the community, and degree of urbanization. For all but the smallest size stratum, schools were selected with equal probabilities; schools with fewer than 300 students were selected with probability proportional to enrollment. Also, schools in low-income areas and schools with high proportions of minority group enrollment were sampled at twice the rate used for the remaining schools. Two schools were selected from each of the final 600 strata.

In the second stage of sample selection, samples of 12th-grade students were selected from each of the sample schools. To the extent feasible, a simple random sample of 18 students was selected at each school. The oversampling of schools in low-income areas and schools with relatively high minority enrollment led to oversampling of low-income and minority students.

For the first follow-up, students from additional schools were sampled to reduce the effects of a large base year school noncooperation rate and of an incomplete frame of public schools. The additional schools were taken from eight new strata. As before, 18 students per school were selected, if possible, by simple random sampling. These students were retained in the sample for subsequent follow-ups.

No subsampling of the original base year sample was done until the fourth follow-up, when a subsample of 1,016 respondents was selected for retesting with a battery of test items that had originally been administered during the base year. There was no subsampling for the collection of questionnaire data. All sample members received the fourth follow-up questionnaire.

3.2 Fifth Follow-Up Sample

The fifth follow-up sample is an unequal probability subsample of the 22,652 students who participated in at least one of the five previous waves of NLS-72. It retains the essential features of the initial stratified multi-stage design and introduces no additional stratification or clustering. Various subgroups were retained in the fifth follow-up sample at different rates, but this disproportionate subsampling was achieved by modification of individual selection probabilities.

With certain major exceptions, the fifth follow-up retention probabilities for students were inversely proportional to their base-year selection probabilities. The exceptions involve several groups of students: certain groups were oversampled or retained with certainty because of their special policy relevance; students with very small initial selection probabilities were also retained with certainty; finally, students who failed to participate in the fourth follow-up were retained at a lower rate than other students, because they were expected to be more expensive to locate and because they would be less useful for longitudinal analysis. The subgroups of students who were retained with certainty were:

- Hispanics who participated in the fourth follow-up
- Teachers and "potential teachers" who participated in the fourth follow-up (a "potential teacher" was defined as a person who majored in education in college, was certified to teach, expected to become a teacher, or who had some background in the sciences, mathematics, or engineering)
- Persons with a four-year or five-year college degree or a more advanced degree
- Persons who were divorced, widowed, or separated from their spouses, or never-married parents.

These groups overlap and thus do not constitute distinct strata in the usual sense. The last group was of particular concern to a study funded by a separate grant from the National Institute for Child Health and Human Development (NICHD).

The remaining cases were cross-classified as either participants or nonparticipants in the fourth follow-up survey. Overall sampling rates for the participants and nonparticipants in the fourth follow-up were determined so as to optimize specific tradeoffs between cross-sectional analyses using fifth follow-up data and longitudinal analyses using fifth and fourth follow-up data. The fourth follow-up participants who were not subsampled with certainty were further partitioned into two groups--those who reported two years of college or less, and all others. The former group was subsampled for retention in the fifth follow-up at half the rate of the latter.

The fifth follow-up subsampling was carried out using systematic selection with unequal probabilities on a sorted file of students. Specifically, the list of the active population of students was sorted according to the stratum to which the student's school belonged; within these strata, the list of students was sorted according to the school from which the student was originally sampled. The structure of the list implies that the subsample is, for all practical purposes, a stratified two-stage sample from the original population. The design differs from the base year design in that the student selection probabilities were equal in the base year design but unequal in the fifth follow-up.

3.3 Weighting

The general purpose of weighting for the survey is to compensate for unequal probabilities of retention in the fifth follow-up sample and to adjust for nonresponse. The weights are based on the inverse of the selection probabilities through all stages of the sample selection process and on nonresponse adjustment factors computed within weighting cells. Separate weights were developed for two subgroups of respondents of the NLS-72 sample: 1) all fifth follow-up participants (with a weight called FU5WT), and 2) all fifth follow-up participants who have legitimate values for five out of six of the following variables: High school grades (BQ5), high school program (HSPGM), sex (CSEX), race (RACE86), socioeconomic status (SES), and educational attainment (EDATT86). The latter weight is called COMVRWT. In addition to these weights, a raw weight (RAWWT), unadjusted for nonresponse, was also calculated and is included on the data file. The raw weight allows analysts to construct additional weights, adjusted for the presence of virtually any combination of data elements. The different weights have been calculated to adjust for the fact that not all sample members have data for all instruments in all survey waves. The weights project to the population of high school seniors of 1972.

3.3.1 Weighting Procedures

The weighting procedures consisted of two basic steps. The first step was the calculation of a preliminary follow-up weight based on the inverse of the cumulative probabilities of selection for the base year sample through the fifth follow-up of NLS-72 (RAWWT). The second step carried out the adjustment of this preliminary weight to compensate for "unit" nonresponse--that is, for non-completion of an entire questionnaire or some combination of survey instruments. (No adjustments are made to the raw weights, which are, by definition, unadjusted for nonresponse.) These steps are described in more detail below.

Step 1: Calculation of raw weights. The first step in weighting the sample was to develop raw weights based on the inverse of the probability of selection (retention) for the various follow-ups. For NLS-72 selections, the raw weight for a case equals the raw weight for the base year sample divided by the conditional probability of selection into the fifth follow-up.

Step 2: Nonresponse adjustment. In this step, the raw weights obtained in the first step were multiplied by nonresponse ratio adjustment factors. Different factors were used to develop FU5WT and COMVRWT for NLS-72, but the approach is similar for each weight. Cases were distributed among weighting cells. Within each weighting cell two sums of raw weights were computed: the first was the sum for all cases in the cell that had been selected for the survey wave (selections); the second was, the sum for all cases in the cell for whom data had been collected (participants). The ratio of the two sums (selections over participants) provided a factor used to expand the preliminary weight of each participant to compensate for the missing weights of those who were selected but did not participate. The raw weights of nonparticipants were multiplied by an adjustment factor of zero to produce final weights of zero for these cases. Thus, the nonresponse adjustment consists of distributing the preliminary weights of the nonparticipants proportionately among the participants in each weighting cell.

During the fifth follow-up, it was learned that 48 sample members had died since the time of the fourth follow-up. Calculation of the nonresponse adjustment requires that these cases be counted both as selections and participants. Hence, the deceased were assigned a weight, and there are more cases with a fifth follow-up weight than there are participants.

The weighting cells were defined by cross-classifying cases by several variables. The weighting cells were based on cross-classification by race (white vs. all others), sex (male vs. female), high school curriculum (general vs. academic vs. vocational or technical), high school grades (B or better vs. C or lower), and postsecondary education (no postsecondary education vs. vocational training only vs. all others). In some instances, cells were combined by pooling across postsecondary educational attendance classes or high school grade classes.

3.3.2 Results of Weighting

As a check on the adequacy of the sample case weights, NORC analyzed the statistical properties of the weights and the effects of various weights on the composition of the survey samples. Table 3.3-1 shows the mean, variance, standard deviation, coefficient of variation, minimum, maximum, skewness, and kurtosis for each of the weights calculated for the NLS-72 fifth follow-up survey.

3.4 Standard Errors and Design Effects

Statistical estimates derived from the NLS-72 survey data are subject to sampling variability. Because the sample design for the fifth follow-up involved stratification, disproportionate sampling of certain groups, and clustered (i.e., multi-stage) probability sampling, the calculation of exact standard errors for survey estimates can be difficult and expensive. Popular statistical analysis packages such as SAS (Statistical Analysis System) or SPSS-X (Statistical Programs for the Social Sciences) normally calculate standard errors under the assumption that the data being analyzed are collected from simple random samples. The NLS-72 sample is somewhat less efficient than a simple random sample of the same size. Thus, sampling errors generated by SAS and SPSS-X will normally underestimate the sampling variability of statistical estimates of population means, percentages, and more complex statistics like regression coefficients.

Several procedures are available for calculating precise estimates of sampling errors for data from complex samples. These procedures--Taylor Series approximation, Balanced Repeated Replication (BRR), and Jackknife Repeated Replication (JRR)--give similar numerical results but vary somewhat with respect to computational cost and convenience. To examine the statistical efficiency of the NLS-72 fifth follow-up sample, standard errors were calculated for 30 percentage estimates for the entire sample and for 11 major subgroups. These standard errors were calculated by the Taylor Series method, using a program developed by NORC. In addition to the standard errors, the design effect (DEFF) and square root of the design effect (DEFT) were calculated for each estimate. All are shown in table 3.4-1.

The design effect is a measure of the efficiency of a sample relative to a simple random sample of the same size as the actual sample. It is defined as the ratio of the actual variance of an estimate (i.e., the square of the estimate's standard error) to the variance of the same estimate from a simple random sample with an equal number of cases. For proportions, the simple random sample variance is just

$$p\ (1 - p)/n \qquad (1)$$

p = the estimated proportion n = the number of cases with non-missing data.

For percentage estimates, the proportion in this formula is merely replaced by the percentage.

Like almost all national samples, the NLS-72 sample is not a simple random sample. The fifth follow-up sample is clustered (by school), stratified, and systematically overrepresents certain groups. Each of these departures has an effect on efficiency, which is reflected in the design effect. Table 3.4-2 presents the average design effects and root design effects for the entire sample and 11 subgroups. The average is taken across the 30 percentage estimates for which standard errors were calculated.

These design effects are similar to those for the High School and Beyond third follow-up (albeit somewhat higher), which is a similarly stratified and clustered sample. The mean design effect for the overall NLS-72 sample is 2.64, as compared to means of 2.28 for the senior cohort in High School and Beyond and 2.19 for the sophomore cohort. The mean design effects indicate that an estimated percentage based on the NLS-72 data is on the average more than twice as variable as the corresponding statistic from a simple random sample of the same size.

The mean design effects vary across the domains from a low of 2.0 for the respondents from the highest SES quartile to a high of 3.8 for the black respondents. The large mean design effect for the black respondents probably reflects their clustering in specific schools. In addition, there is some variation across domains in how variable the design effects are across the 30 estimates. For both black and Hispanic respondents and for respondents with no postsecondary education, the standard deviations of the design effects indicate high variability across estimates. For black respondents, the standard deviation of the 30 design effects is 1.44; for Hispanics, it is 1.43; and for respondents who did not pursue postsecondary education, it is 1.57. Thus, for analyses focusing on data from each of these three subgroups, the use of a single generalized design effect to inflate simple random sample estimates of the variance must be considered as subject to greater uncertainty than would be the case for the other subgroups.

The mean design effects given in Table 3.4-2 can be used to calculate approximate standard errors for estimates for which exact standard errors are unavailable. For example, the standard error of a proportion can be estimated using the square root of the expression in equation (1) above times the mean root design effect (DEFT):

$$SE = DEFT\ (p[1-p]/n)^{1/2} \tag{2}$$

Similarly, the standard error of a continuous variable can be calculated as the mean DEFT times the square root of the weighted variance of the scores on that variable:

$$SE = DEFT\ (WTVAR/n)^{1/2} \tag{3}$$

Thus, for statistics based on data from white respondents, standard errors can be corrected using the average DEFT of 1.56. Because the design effects for the subgroups are generally smaller than those for the entire sample, it is reasonable to use the overall DEFT of 1.61 for subgroup analyses as well as analyses involving all respondents. As was noted earlier, the use of such a generalized correction procedure may be less accurate for certain subgroup analyses than for others. For three subgroups, those based on black or Hispanic respondents, or respondents with no postsecondary education there was relatively high variability in the design effects.

4. DATA COLLECTION

4.1 Prefield Locating Period

In October 1985, NORC mailed a locating packet to 14,489 members of the NLS-72 sample. The packet included a report about previous surveys, a letter of introduction, and an address form with room to update address information. NORC received a total of 6,677 responses to the mailing (a rate of 46 percent), with 4,661 updated addresses and 2,016 address verifications. These were used to make corrections on the name and address (locator) file.

Locating packets returned as undeliverable were routed to the in-house telephone locating shop. Of 2,242 undeliverables, the telephone interviewers found updated addresses for 1,366, or 61 percent of them; the remainder were sent to the field staff for more intensive locating. Of the cases assigned to the field staff, updated addresses were obtained for 231 respondents (24 percent). Locating activities continued into the main field period for the remaining 645 persons. All addresses obtained by phone or in the field, as well as forwarding addresses from the post office, were also entered into the locator file.

4.2 Field Period

The field period began the second week of March and continued through mid-September. Questionnaire packages were mailed to 14,489 respondents, some of whose addresses had been updated during the prefield locating period. The packages contained questionnaires, a cover letter, a $5 respondent fee check, a pencil, and a return envelope. Survey materials were mailed first class with "Address Correction Requested" specified on envelopes. Mailing was completed by March 5th.

By the end of the third week, or April 1, 28 percent of the total sample had completed and returned their questionnaires. Those respondents who had not returned their questionnaires by then were sent follow-up postcards. The purpose of the postcards was to thank those who had completed and returned their questionnaires and to encourage the others to send them in promptly.

Telephone prompting of those who had not sent in questionnaires began in early April, approximately two weeks after postcards were mailed. NORC field interviewers contacted respondents to urge them to complete and return questionnaires. Offers to remail survey materials were made to those who reported they had not received questionnaires or had misplaced them.

Although the field staff continued to contact respondents and encourage the self-administration of questionnaires, administration by telephone and in person began in June, during the fourteenth week of the field period. In order to make survey procedures comparable, respondents were asked to keep a copy of the questionnaire in front of them for both telephone and in-person interviews.

At this time, 9,107 questionnaires, or 62.9 percent of the total, had been received. The number of cases completed with interviewer assistance began to increase in July and continued to be the dominant method of administration through mid-September. After twenty-seven weeks, the field period ended with a final response rate of 88.6 percent, or 12,841 completed questionnaires. The majority of questionnaires were completed without interviewer assistance - 72 percent of the sample (81 percent of the participants). Telephone interviews were held with 13 percent of the sample (15 percent of the participants), and in-person interviews accounted for 3.5 percent of the sample (4 percent of the participants). FIMETHOD is the variable on the data file that contains this information. Table 4.2-1 displays the final response rates for the total sample by various sampling classes.

Data Collection Results By Major Sampling Classes

Sampling Class	Initial Selections	Completed Cases	Refusals	Other	Response Rate

Whites & others	7,695	6,954	195	546	90.4
Total Sample	14,489	12,841	373	1,275	88.6

Note: The NICHD group consists of respondents retained in the fifth follow-up sample with certainty by virtue of their marital status or status as single parents. The teacher pool includes respondents identified as teachers or potential teachers based on the responses to items in the fourth follow-up; they too were retained in the fifth follow-up sample with certainty (see section 3.2). "Other" nonrespondents includes cases who were unavailable, deceased, or unlocatable.

5. DATA CONTROL AND PREPARATION

5.1 Shipping and Receiving Documents

Respondents and field interviewers mailed questionnaires to NORC's central office in Chicago. Arriving documents were sorted according to disposition codes that identified completed cases by method of administration (i.e., self-administered, telephone interview, or personal interview). These disposition codes were then entered into NORC's Survey Management System (SMS), a microcomputer-based system.

Data control and preparation refers to the series of steps that converts a completed questionnaire into a machine-readable data set. The major steps include coding of open-ended responses, editing and data entry of completed instruments, retrieval of missing or invalid responses on critical items, and validation of a percentage of the interviews completed in person or over the telephone.

5.2 Coding

A staff of four coders processed 12,841 completed student questionnaires. Coders were trained for two days, after which their first 20 cases were reviewed. If a coder's work did not prove to be satisfactory during this review, he or she was reassigned or retrained depending on the severity of the problem. After the initial training period, the percentage of cases checked by supervisors declined gradually until it reached 10 percent.

Unlike coders in previous follow-ups, coders for this wave were not responsible for editing of the responses. All editing was carried out as part of the computer-assisted data entry (CADE) procedure described in the next section. Coders were responsible only for assigning values to the open-ended questions on occupation, industry, postsecondary school, field of study, state where marriage and divorce occurred, and relationship.

Occupation and industry codes were obtained from the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census Classified Index of Industries and Occupations, 1970 and Alphabetical Index of Industries and Occupations, 1970, the same sources that were used in the previous follow-ups.

Coding of the names of the postsecondary schools attended by the respondents was accomplished using the same codes as for the fourth follow-up survey. These codes were originally taken from the NCES Education Directory, Colleges and Universities, 1975-1976. If a school could not be found on this list, then an updated list was searched. The updated list consisted of FICE codes taken from the most recent Education Directories (1980-1981 through 1985-1986), plus postsecondary school codes from the 1979-1980 and 1981-1982 editions of the Directory of Postsecondary Schools with Occupational Programs. In the data file, an additional variable (for example, FI19FLG) contains a one-digit code indicating which source directory provided the code for each school.

As in earlier rounds, codes were assigned to schools that did not appear in any of these directories. Codes with values beginning with 800,000 were assigned to foreign schools; unlisted business and trade schools were assigned values beginning with 850,000. Field-of-study information was coded using A Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) (National Center for Education Statistics, 1981). Appendix B contains a copy of the codes.

In the fifth follow-up, for the first time, all codes were loaded into a computer program for quicker access. Coders entered a given response and the program displayed the corresponding numerical code. This computerized coding system proved to be faster and more accurate than the use of manual look-up books.

5.3 Data Entry

The fifth follow-up survey marked the first time that NLS-72 data were entered with a combination of keyed entry and optical scanning procedures. Using NORC's Computer Assisted Data Entry program (CADE), operators were able to combine data entry with the traditional editing procedures.

The CADE system, an offshoot of CATI (Computer Assisted Telephone Interviewing), was designed to step question-by-question through critical and numeric items. The program skipped over questions that were slated for scanning and questions that were legitimately skipped because of a filter question. Ranges were set for each question, thereby preventing illegitimate responses from being accidentally entered.

The CADE program accepted reserved codes from the operator to indicate a missing or illegitimate response. These codes were then converted to the standard reserved codes used in previous waves. To reduce the possibility of error, the CADE program required double entry of reserved codes on all critical questions.

Twelve CADE operators were trained for two days. After a 100 percent check of their first 20 cases, operators not meeting quality control standards were either terminated or retrained. After the initial training period, a high percentage of quality control was continued until each operator was well within acceptable standards. Eight of the twelve CADE operators worked solely on CADE throughout the study. The other four learned both CADE and coding procedures. CADE operators were responsible for the critical item edit. Those critical items that did not pass the edit were flagged, both manually and by the CADE system, for retrieval. Besides critical items, numeric items, open-ended items, and filter items were designated for CADE entry. These items have traditionally caused difficulty for respondents, particularly numeric items, where respondents do not right justify values and fill in grids correctly. Because these items were directly entered by operators who were inspecting each questionnaire, respondent errors could be discovered and resolved on an individual basis rather than through the more global procedures of machine editing.

After a missing critical item was retrieved by telephone interviewers, the questionnaire was returned to CADE for entry of the retrieved data. After the retrieved data had been entered, questionnaires were checked and boxed for shipment to the scanning firm.

Processing questionnaires through both coding and CADE averaged 11.5 minutes a case--3.6 minutes for coding and 7.9 minutes for CADE. Cases requiring retrieval took an additional 3.5 minutes of processing. Across all the cases, the average combined time for coding, initial data entry, and data entry for retrieved items was 12.8 minutes a case.

5.4 Retrieval and Validation

Cases for which critical items were missing were retrieved by central office telephone interviewers through September 5, 1986. The telephone interviewers processed 5,228 questionnaires, retrieving data for 4,631, or 92 percent, of them. The remaining cases included 74 persons who refused to answer the critical item(s) and 334 who could not be located.

In addition to critical items, two printing errors required that respondents be called to clarify their answers. The first instance, the word "not" had been deleted from question 36, making the instruction ambiguous. In the second instance, the label "NON-HISPANIC" was missing from question 97. These errors led to calling 17 percent of the respondents. Overall, the retrieval rate, including calls generated by printing errors, was 53 percent.

Validation procedures for the fifth follow-up centered on verification of data quality through item checks and verification of the method of administration for 10 percent of each interviewer's work. Each field manager was assigned a random number between 0 and and validated each nth for all her interviewers. Field managers telephoned the respondent to check several items of fact and to confirm that the interviewer had conducted a personal or telephone interview, or had picked up a questionnaire, as indicated in the interviewer's report. No cases failed validation.

6. DATA PROCESSING

Data processing activities extended the length of the NLS-72 survey, beginning with pretest activities, continuing with maintenance of the respondent locator database, and concluding with machine editing and the preparation of public use data tapes.

6.1 Maintenance of Longitudinal Locator Data Bases

The locator data base maintains the most up-to-date name and address information available for each sample member as well as information from previous waves. This file was provided to NORC by RTI, who conducted the first though fourth follow-up surveys. After the fourth follow-up, RTI maintained this data base through two address-update efforts conducted by mail in 1981 and 1983 under contracts with CES. Respondents kept the address update cards from the last mailing and sent them in with changes of address occurring as late as 1986; RTI forwarded these cards to NORC, and the new addresses were entered into the locator file for the fifth follow-up survey. To ensure respondent confidentiality, all locating information is stored on secure files that are separate from the questionnaire data.

6.2 Receipt Control Procedures

Receipt control functions for the fifth follow-up were performed using NORC's Survey Management System (SMS). The SMS monitors the current status of each case during the survey period. It performs both receipt and document control through all processing steps in order to provide project management immediate and direct control over all critical survey events.

At the outset of the survey, the SMS was loaded with case records for all sample members. As documents were received, the SMS database was updated to reflect the receipt of questionnaires, and subsequently to record progress through CADE, retrieval, return to CADE (for entering retrieved data), and finally uploading to a master file and shipment of documents to the scanning subcontractor (Questar Data Systems). Certain features were incorporated into the SMS to reduce the chance of errors at various processing points. For instance, at the point of updating the case record, the SMS performed an automatic search of the database to verify that the ID entered on the screen was valid. Furthermore, updates were permitted only if the current status code was logically prior to the new status code that the operator was attempting to add.

Weekly summary reports on the receipt of questionnaires were produced throughout the field period. Once the documents were in house, data control disposition codes were updated in the SMS files, making it possible to track the internal movement of instruments through mail receipt, CADE, data retrieval, and shipment for optical scanning. The respondent-level SMS (receipt control) files were linked with the longitudinal locator database to produce interviewer assignment logs, to trace nonrespondents as of a certain date, and to produce reminder postcards.

Reconciliation procedures were followed during and after the data collection period. Validity of IDs was tracked through CADE (every ID was checked against a master list before data were entered in CADE). Once CADE and scanning operations were complete, NORC matched the Questar data record for each respondent to the CADE data file and reported any discrepancies. Each discrepant case was examined individually to determine whether an ID had been miskeyed. Although all questionnaires had been precoded with the ID for optical scanning, IDs still needed to be entered by hand for questionnaires that had been remailed and those that had been administered by interviewers, and these were subject to data entry errors. All discrepancies were resolved.

6.3 Optical Scanning

As discussed in earlier sections, the student questionnaires were designed to accommodate two distinct processing methods. All critical items and filter questions, (plus error-prone data, like dollar amounts and numbers in general) were to be processed by CADE. The rest of the data were optically scanned using equipment that read darkened ovals or marks on the page. The scanning subcontractor conducted extensive tests and checks of the machine's ability to correctly read the darkened ovals. Adjustments were made to the marksense threshold as required. Finally, questionnaires were marked up and scanned. The results were then compared with hard copy to verify that satisfactory data conversion was being achieved.

All major skip items and all critical items were entered in CADE. Missing values were converted to blanks by the optical scanning subcontractor. During machine editing at NORC, blanks were changed to missing value codes.

6.4 Machine Editing

In the fifth follow-up many of the traditional checks done during editing (see base year through fourth follow-up manual) were instead dealt with during CADE. The system enforced skip patterns, range checking, and appropriate use of reserved codes. This strategy allowed operators to deal with problems or inconsistencies at the point where they still had the document in hand and consequently could make the most informed decision (see section 5.3).

For the items that were scanned, the machine-editing steps used in prior follow-ups were implemented. Since most of the filter questions were CADE-designated items, there were few filter-dependent inconsistencies to be handled in machine editing.

6.5 Data File Preparation

Base year through fourth follow-up data are stored in one data set. The tape and associated user's manual are available from CES. The fifth follow-up data of the NLS-72 were placed on a separate tape. Users can obtain these data alone if they have no interest in the prior waves.

A final task of each survey was the computation of composite variables. The fifth follow-up composites, constructed in consultation with the CES staff, are EDATT86, MARSTAT, CHILDREN, AND RACE86. These composite variables are discussed in Chapter 7.

7. GUIDE TO THE DATA FILES AND CODEBOOK

The fifth follow-up data can be used alone or can be merged with the base year through fourth follow-up data. In either case, it is important to use the proper participation flags and weights so that conventional statistical packages function to produce accurate statistics. Before describing the data files, we offer suggestions in this regard that should be helpful to the analyst. These are followed by a complete description of the content and organization of the NLS-72 fifth follow-up data files and a guide to the codebook.

In this section on the data files, the reader should pay particular attention to the composite variables, which have been specially constructed to streamline substantive analyses (see Section 7.2.6). Since researchers often need to control for education level, family income, educational aspirations, SES, and so forth, a few composite variables from the previous waves have been included in this data set, besides the ones constructed using fifth follow-up data. The analyst thus has several important control variables at his or her disposal and has little need to undertake time-consuming and complicated variable construction.

7.1 Suggestions for Selecting Participation Flags and Weights and Using Statistical Programs

One of the first steps to take before running statistical analyses is to select the proper participation flags and weights. This step is required whether or not the analyst intends to examine fifth follow-up data alone or in combination with data from prior waves. The fifth follow-up contains FU5PART (tape position 1874) to indicate participation in the fifth follow-up, and TEACHFLAG (tape position 1877) to indicate completion of the Teaching Supplement questionnaire. These flags should be used to select the subset of respondents who participated in the wave(s) the analyst intends to examine (see appendix C regarding merging files from different waves). When the flags are used with the corresponding weights, appropriate population estimates can be produced. The corresponding weight for the fifth follow up is FU5WT. Even if the analyst is running unweighted statistics, the participation flags should be used.

The reason for stressing the use of participation flags and weights is to ensure that unweighted and weighted analyses are performed correctly by most computer packages. (See appendix C for specific examples using SAS). If cases are not first selected using the participation flag, some packaged programs may include in the analysis cases with no data, thus giving erroneous bases for frequencies, crosstabulations, variances, and so forth.

Although weights are covered in detail in chapter 3, a few words are warranted here. The fifth follow-up data files are designed to be used as a weighted data set in all kinds of analysis. The complex sample design of the survey virtually ensures inaccurate results if the data are analyzed on an unweighted basis. Clustering, multi-stage selection, and disproportionate sampling all contribute potential bias and various degrees of unreliability, which can be avoided by using the weights provided to analyze specific subsets of the sample. The weights included on the file are discussed in section 3.3.

7.1.1 Packaged Statistical Programs

CES has responded to numerous questions over the years having to do with statistical analyses of the longitudinal data sets and now routinely recommends the procedures outlined in appendix C, using SAS with NLS-72 data. Of course, SPSS-X can also be used, and the data file contains the appropriate control cards for both packages. Users should be aware that SAS and SPSS-X are now interchangeable at many computer installations, and should contact their own facility to obtain the information necessary to create an SPSS-X file from SAS and vice versa.

7.2 Content and Organization of the Data Files

The fifth follow-up data file consists of 14,489 records. Each record is organized as shown in the record layout that appears as Appendix D. The variables on the record are grouped into logical sets as discussed below. For the sake of brevity, each item of data is referred to by its SAS (SPSS-X) variable name as defined in the SAS and SPSS-X control cards provided with the data file. The fifth follow-up data tape contains the following files:

1. The raw data file with items in the following order for each respondent:
    a) randomized ID number (positions 1-6)
    b) fifth follow-up questionnaire data (positions 7-1872)
    c) fifth follow-up flags, composites, and weights (positions 1873-1927)
2. The record layout for the raw data file
3. SAS control cards
4. SPSS-X control cards

The items under (1) above are discussed on the following pages. Technical specifications on tape density, record length, and so forth, are provided separately with each tape.

7.2.1 Identification Codes

The first variable on the file, RTIID (in tape positions 1-6, or "columns" 1 through 6), is a unique but randomized six-digit student identification code. The first five digits of RTIID on the fifth follow-up file correspond exactly with RTI_ID on the base year plus earlier follow-up files, which was the ID number used by Research Triangle Institute in prior waves of the survey. Only these first five digits of the fifth follow-up RTIID need to be used when merging fifth follow-up data with previous waves. The sixth digit corresponds to the variable called STU_CKD, which was an additional check digit used to confirm matches. The easiest way to match data from the fifth follow-up file with earlier ones is to read in RTIID from columns 1-5 of the raw data file. If SAS files are used, RTI_ID = INT(RTIID/10) will create a variable which will match exactly. For SPSS-X files, RTI_ID=TRUNC(RTIID/10) will create a matching ID. PLEASE NOTE that RTI_ID is actually named VAR001 on the base year plus fourth follow-up file from RTI. When merging this file with any of the earlier SAS or SPSS system files, you should first check the actual name stored for student ID and use that name for the modified RTIID.

7.2.2 Participation and Status Codes

As described above, FU5PART (1874) indicates whether the student was a participant (code = 1) or nonparticipant (code = 0) during the survey. FU5STAT (1875) provides the final case disposition for participant (code = 1), unavailable (code = 2), unlocatable (code = 3), refused (code = 4), deceased (code = 5), and mentally handicapped (code = 6). FIMETHOD indicates the method of administration used for the fifth follow-up questionnaire: mailed questionnaire (code = 1); in-person interview (code = 2); or telephone interview (code = 3); and non-participant (code = 8).

7.2.3 Flags

DECFLAG (1876) indicates if the respondent is alive (code = 0), or if deceased as of the first follow-up (code = 1), second follow-up (code = 2), third follow-up (code = 3), fourth follow-up (code = 4), or fifth follow-up (code = 5).

TEACHFLAG (1877) indicates eligibility for and participation in Teaching Supplement. Respondents were identified as eligible for receiving the Teaching Supplement questionnaire on the basis of their answers to Questions 18 in the main survey. The values for this flag are: not eligible (code = 0); eligible but questionnaire not mailed (code = 1); questionnaire mailed, nonrespondent (code = 2); questionnaire completed, not a teacher (3); questionnaire received, teacher (code = 4).

Flags to indicate the source of FICE and PSVD codes have been placed adjacent to each after each FICE and PSVD code. There are five instances of such codes in the questionnaire (FI19, FI20, FI24A, FI24B, FI24C). The corresponding flags are: FI19FLG (601); FI20FLG (661); FI24AFLG (739); FI24BFLG (766); and FI24C (793). Flags with the zero (0) code indicate that the FICE code can be found in the list created for the base year through fourth follow-up data. In most cases, these codes were taken from the HEGIS 73-74 directory but the list also includes other codes created during prior waves. The rest of the values indicate from which Education directory the codes were extracted. For example, in FI19, 97% of the codes (12,507) were taken from the NLS-72 base-year through fourth follow up list. The rest can be found in Education Directory, Colleges and Universities (HEGIS directories) for the years 1984 (code = 5), 1985 (code = 6), Directory of Postsecondary Schools with Occupational Programs (PSVD) for the years 1979 (code = 7) and 1981 (code = 8). Codes were created for 46 schools not listed in any directory (code = 9). The unlisted schools are contained in appendix B.5.

Wage flags were created to indicate wage rates that appear unusually high or low and could be respondent error. The flags are: FI7GFLG (117), FI7HFLG (128), FI8GFLG (219), FI8HFLG (230), FI9GFLG (321), FI9HFLG (332), FI10GFLG (423), and FI10HFLG (434). The flags are located next to starting and ending salaries for the most recent job and up to three previous jobs reported during the fifth follow-up. The flags simply indicate wage rates that appear unusually low or high and could be respondent error. Before creating these flags, all salary amounts were put on a common metric of hourly rates. The categories are: (0) Unpaid or no rate; (1) Less than $2 per hour; (2) $2 per hour to $30 per hour; (3) More than $30 per hour; (8) Wage missing; (9) Legitimate skip.

7.2.4 Sampling Weights

The weights included on the fifth follow-up data file include fifth follow-up weight (FU5WT), Composite Variable Weight (COMVRWT) and raw weight (RAWWT). (See chapter 3 for a full description; also see section 7.1.)

Tests of statistical significance on these data should be carried out on a weighted basis and should take account of the design effect due to the complex sample design and weighting scheme. Exact standard errors and design effects (DEFF factors) and root design effects (DEFT factors) for proportions estimated on 30 variables are provided in table 3.4-1. Chapter 3 also contains guidelines on how to use the DEFTs to adjust standard errors produced by SAS and SPSS-X, so that they reflect the complex sample design of the NLS-72 fifth follow-up survey. The standard errors and design effects were calculated using the Taylor Series method of estimating standard errors.

7.2.5 Questionnaire Data

The data items for the fifth follow-up questionnaire are located in positions 7 through 1872 and are arranged in the order in which the items appeared on the questionnaire.

Due to the increased interest in event history analysis, the fifth follow-up survey collected more detailed information on the time periods during which respondents held jobs or were in school. Instead of recording one start and stop date for each school and job, up to eight time periods or start and stop dates are shown. To allow for maximum user flexibility, the responses were coded into pairs of starting and ending dates. Each starting and ending point for each interval is made up of separate year and month variables. For most applications, users will find that concatenating the year and month variables ((YEAR*100)+MONTH) is the easiest approach. Use of such utilities as SAS ARRAY or SPSS-X VECTOR processing will also expedite recoding and analysis.

7.2.6 Composite Variables

For the convenience of the user several of the composite variables and indices that were created for the first though fourth follow-up data files have been placed on the fifth follow-up data tape. These variables, which can be found in positions 1910 through 1927, are: CSEX (sex of the respondent), HSPGM (composite high school program), CFAED (father's education composite), CMOED (mother's education composite), REGION (location of the high school the respondent attended); COMMUNIT (the degree of urbanization of the community in which the respondent's high school was located.), SES (socio-economic status), HSGRADES (high school grades), and EDATT (educational attainment as of 1979).

Four composite variables were created for the fifth follow-up and are found in positions 1902 through 1909:

MARSTAT	Marital status in 1986. This variable is a recode of the categories in Question 77. The values are: single (code - 1); married (code - 2); divorced, widowed, separated (code - 3); living with someone in a marriage-like relationship (code - 4); and status unknown (code - 5),
CHILDREN	Number of children ever had, including natural, adopted, and step-children. This variable is a recode of Question 84. The categories are 1 (code - 1); 2 (code - 2); 3-4 (code - 3); 5-6 (code - 4) 7 or more (code - 5),
RACE86	Two questions (Q.97 and Q.98) were added to the fifth follow-up survey to clarify ambiguities in race and ethnicity classifications in prior waves. The following categories are based on these items. Where fifth follow-up data were missing CRACE was substituted. The categories are: Hispanics (code - 1); Native American (code - 2); Asian-Pacific Islander (code - 3), Black (code - 4); White and Other (code - 5),
EDATT86	This variable is a recode of the categories in Question 29. The values are: some high-school (code - 1); high school diploma (code - 2); two years or more of vocational, trade, or business school (code - 3); some college (code - 4);

college graduate (code = 5); Master's degree (code = 6); Ph.D., M.D. or other advance degree (code = 7)

Most of the composite variables can be used as classification variables or independent variables in data analysis. For this reason, composite variables may be referred to as classification variables in this or other CES documents.

7.3 Guide to the Codebook

The codebook provides a comprehensive description of the student data file and is organized in the same way. It begins with questionnaire data and is followed by composite variables. The last section contains fifth follow-up composite variables. For each variable on the tape the codebook provides the information shown in Figure 7.3 as referenced by the number in parentheses and explained below the figure.

Explanations:

(1) Question number: For variables taken directly from questionnaires, this is the question number in the original document. Composite variables and other items such as flags and weights have variables names that represent their purpose.

(2) Tape position: This item gives the starting and ending tape position for each variable on the data tape.

(3) Variable format: This item indicates the type of variable, its width, and the number of decimal points, if any.

(4) SAS (SPSS-X) variable name: Each variable on the data tape is identified by a unique SAS (SPSS-X) variable name. Data indicators (such as flags and status codes) and composite variables are given mnemonics that help identify them, for example, TEACHFLG for "Teaching Supplement Flag" and SES for "socioeconomic status composite".

The user should be careful always to refer to the variable by its SAS (SPSS-X) variable name in any computing procedures, rather than by its question number, which may be very similar to the variable name.

(5) SAS (SPSS-X) variable label: A short variable label appears after the variable name. This label is the same as that which appears on the SAS (SPSS-X) data definition cards included on the tape.

(6) Original question wording: For questionnaire items, this provides the exact question wording as it appeared in the original document.

(7) Response categories: This item provides either the original response categories (in the case of questionnaire items) or the recoded or constructed response categories for composite variables and data indicators, such as flags. For display in the tables, continuous variables have been recoded to collapse all valid values into a single response category. This allows the codebook tables to show the frequency counts, unweighted percentages, and adjusted weighted percentages for continuous variables without printing each distinct value that the variable can take.

(8) Response codes: This item provides the actual numerical codes that appear on the data tape in the tape position specified (except for continuous variables where the actual values that appear on the tape have been recoded to produce the frequency counts and percentages). Certain codes, discussed below, are reserved to indicate missing data, legitimate skip, and so forth.

(9) Frequency counts: This item shows the unweighted frequency counts for all records that were processed, including records that have missing data codes, legitimate skips, and so forth. Note, however, that the unweighted totals in the codebook vary: 14,489 cases for variables such as ID code and participation flags and 12,841 cases for fifth follow-up variables. These different bases reflect the fact that not all sample members responded to the fifth follow-up survey.

(10) Unweighted percentage frequencies: This column displays the frequency counts of Item 9 as percentages. All records that were processed are included.

(11) Weighted "valid cases" percentage frequencies: This column displays the weighted frequency of those cases that are "valid," that is, excluding those records that have been assigned reserved codes.

(12) Reserved codes: In this data set certain codes termed "reserved codes" have been chosen always stand for certain situations. These codes and their interpretations are:

4 - don't know	the respondent did not neglect to respond to this question nor did he/she refuse to answer; instead, the respondent stated that the necessary information was not available

5 - uncodeable verbatim	the written response was too unusual to be categorized OR the response was unintelligible or illegible
6 - multiple punch	more than one response where only one was called for
7 - refusal	respondent refused to answer an item, either at the time of questionnaire administration or telephone follow-up (this value is available only for questionnaire items designated as critical for analysis)
8 - missing data	data that should be present for this respondent is missing, but respondent did not necessarily refuse to provide data
9 - legitimate skip	either because of responses to preceding filter questions or because of other respondent characteristics, data for this item should not be present for this respondent; that is, the data are legitimately missing.

The codes as listed above apply to variables with single-column data fields. For variables with fields greater than one column, the left most columns are filled with 9s (e.g., 96, 996, 9996).

The Federal Privacy Act of 1974 requires that each survey respondent be informed of the following:

(1) This survey is authorized by law (20 USC 1221e-1). While you are not required to respond, your cooperation will make the results of this survey comprehensive, accurate, and timely.

(2) You are subject to no penalty for not providing all or any part of the requested information.

(3) The purpose for which this information is to be used is to provide statistics on a national sample of students as they move out of the American high school system into the critical years of early adulthood. These statistics will be related to postsecondary educational costs and financial aid and other factors on the educational, work, and career choices of young adults.

(4) The routine uses of these data will be statistical in nature as detailed in paragraph 9 of Appendix B of the Department Regulations (34 CFR 5b) published in the Federal Register, Vol. 45, No. 92, May 9, 1980.

NOTE: The O.M.B. approval number listed on the front cover does not apply to questions marked with an asterisk (*). These questions are supported by a research grant which, under Federal Regulations, is not subject to O.M.B. approval.

MARKING DIRECTIONS

Filling out this questionnaire is as easy as 1-2-3!

For questions on which you respond by filling in an oval, please make heavy black marks that completely fill the oval. If you make a mistake, completely erase the incorrect answer and enter the correct one.

CORRECT MARKS	INCORRECT MARKS

Please do not make stray marks of any kind. If any stray marks are made by accident, please erase them completely.

Instructions are included with each question. Below are examples of the different kinds of instructions you will see and the correct way to answer each kind of question. Be sure to use the No. 2 pencil we have provided. Do not use a ballpoint or felt-tip pen.

1. CIRCLE OR MARK ANSWER CATEGORIES:

It is important to circle or mark (as specified) one or more numbers that go with your answers.

EXAMPLE A

What is the color of your eyes? (MARK ONE)

○ Brown
○ Blue
● Green
○ Another color

"My eyes are green."

EXAMPLE B

Last week did you do any of the following?
(MARK ALL THAT APPLY)

● See a play
● Go to a movie
○ Attend a sporting event

"Last week I saw a movie and a play."

EXAMPLE C

Do you plan to do any of the following next week?

WORK EXPERIENCE

In this section, we would like to find out about the jobs you have held, particularly in the period between October 1979 and the present time. Include full-time jobs, part-time jobs, apprenticeships, on-the-job training, military service and so on.

We are interested in learning about the kinds of jobs you have held, the hours you worked and your income from these jobs, the level of your job satisfaction, and the relation of your training and education to your work experience. This information will help us better understand the movement of young people into the world of work and the reasons for changes in job situations.

[2] This code is used to identify not reported occupations in surveys where the not reported cases are not allocated.

[3] Those returns from the Population Census which do not have an occupation entry are allocated among the major occupation groups during computer processing. These cases are labeled with the code for the "allocation" category to which they are assigned. (See text, page VI).

INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION SYSTEM

Equivalent alphabetic codes follow some codes. Either code may be utilized, depending upon the processing method. Numbers in parentheses following the industry categories are the SIC definitions. "N.e.c." means "not elsewhere classified."

Industry Code	AGRICULTURE, FORESTRY, AND FISHERIES
017 (A)	Agricultural production (01)
018	Agricultural services, except horticultural (07 except 0713 and 073)
019	Horticultural services (073)
027	Forestry (08)
028	Fisheries (09)
	MINING
047	Metal mining (10)
048	Coal mining (11, 12)
049	Crude petroleum and natural gas extractions (13)
057	Nonmetallic mining and quarrying, except fuel (14)
	CONSTRUCTION
067	General building contractors (15)
068	General contractors, except building (16)
069 (B)	Special trade contractors (17)
077	Not specified construction
	MANUFACTURING
	Durable goods
	Lumber and wood products, except furniture
107	Logging (241)
108	Sawmills, planing mills, and mill work (242, 243)
109	Miscellaneous wood products (244, 249)
118	Furniture and fixtures (25)
	Stone, clay, and glass products
119	Glass and glass products (321-323)
127	Cement, concrete, gypsum, and plaster products (324, 327)
128	Structural clay products (325)
137	Pottery and related products (326)
138	Miscellaneous nonmetallic mineral and stone products (328, 329)
	Metal industries
139	Blast furnaces, steel works, rolling and finishing mills (3312, 3313)
147	Other primary iron and steel industries (3315-3317, 332, 3391, part 3399)
148	Primary aluminum industries (3334, part 334, 3352, 3361, part 3392, part 3399)
149	Other primary nonferrous industries (3331-3333, 3339, part 334, 3351, 3356, 3357, 3362, 3369, part 3392, part 3399)
157	Cutlery, hand tools, and other hardware (342)
158	Fabricated structural metal products (344)
159	Screw machine products (345)
167	Metal stamping (346)

168	Miscellaneous fabricated metal products (341, 343, 347, 348, 349)
169	Not specified metal industries
	Machinery, except electrical
177	Engines and turbines (351)
178	Farm machinery and equipment (352)
179	Construction and material handling machines (353)
187	Metalworking machinery (354)
188	Office and accounting machines (357 except 3573)
189	Electronic computing equipment (3573)
197	Machinery, except electrical, n.e.c. (355, 356, 358, 359)
198	Not specified machinery
	Electrical machinery, equipment, and supplies
199	Household appliances (363)
207	Radio, T.V., and communication equipment (365, 366)
208	Electrical machinery, equipment, and supplies, n.e.c. (361, 362, 364, 367, 369)
209	Not specified electrical machinery, equipment, and supplies
	Transportation equipment
219	Motor vehicles and motor vehicle equipment (371)
227	Aircraft and parts (372)
228	Ship and boat building and repairing (373)
229	Railroad locomotives and equipment (374)
237	Mobile dwellings and campers (3791)
238	Cycles and miscellaneous transportation equipment (375, 3799)
	Professional and photographic equipment, and watches
239	Scientific and controlling instruments (381, 382)
247	Optical and health services supplies (383, 384, 385)
248	Photographic equipment and supplies (386)
249	Watches, clocks, and clockwork-operated devices (387)
257	Not specified professional equipment
258	Ordnance (19)
259	Miscellaneous manufacturing industries (39)
	Nondurable goods
	Food and kindred products
268	Meat products (201)
269	Dairy products (202)
278	Canning and preserving fruits, vegetables, and sea foods (203)
279	Grain-mill products (204, 0713)
287	Bakery products (205)
288	Confectionery and related products (207)

289	Beverage industries (208)
297	Miscellaneous food preparation and. kindred products (206, 209)
298	Not specified food industries
299	Tobacco manufactures (21)
	Textile mill products
307	Knitting mills (225)
308	Dyeing and finishing textiles, except wool and knit goods (226)
309	Floor coverings, except hard surface (227)

349	Synthetic fibers (2823, 2824)
357	Drugs and medicines (283)
358	Soaps and cosmetics (284)
359	Paints, varnishes, and related products (285)
367	Agricultural chemicals (287)
368	Miscellaneous chemicals (286, 289)
369	Not specified chemicals and allied products
	Petroleum and coal products
377	Petroleum refining (291)
378	Miscellaneous petroleum and coal products (295, 299)
	Rubber and miscellaneous plastic products
379	Rubber products (301-303, 306)
387	Miscellaneous plastic products (307)
	Leather and leather products
388	Tanned, curried, and finished leather (311)
389	Footwear, except rubber (313, 314)
397	Leather products, except footwear (312, 315-317, 319)
398	Not specified manufacturing industries

TRANSPORTATION, COMMUNICATIONS, AND OTHER PUBLIC UTILITIES

Transportation

407 (D)	Railroads and railway express service (40)
408	Street railways and bus lines (411, 413-415, 417)
409	Taxicab service (412)
417	Trucking service (421, 423)
418	Warehousing and storage (422)
419	Water transportation (44)
427	Air transportation (45)
428	Pipe lines, except natural gas (46)
429	Services incidental to transportation (47)

Industry Code	TRANSPORTATION, COMMUNICATIONS, AND OTHER PUBLIC UTILITIES—Continued

Communications

447	Radio broadcasting and television (483)
448	Telephone (wire and radio) (481)
449	Telegraph and miscellaneous communication services (482, 489)

Utilities and sanitary services

467	Electric light and power (491)
468	Electric-gas utilities (493)
469	Gas and steam supply systems (492, 496)
477	Water supply (494)
478	Sanitary services (495)
479	Other and not specified utilities (497)

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL TRADE

Wholesale trade

507	Motor vehicles and equipment (501)
508	Drugs, chemicals, and allied products (502)
509	Dry goods and apparel (503)
527	Food and related products (504)
528	Farm products—raw materials (505)
529	Electrical goods (506)
537	Hardware, plumbing, and heating supplies (507)
538	Not specified electrical and hardware products
539	Machinery equipment and supplies (508)
557	Metals and minerals, n.e.c. (5091)
558	Petroleum products (5092)
559	Scrap and waste materials (5093)
567	Alcoholic beverages (5095)
568	Paper and its products (5096)

APPENDIX C: GUIDELINES FOR USING SAS WITH NLS-72 FIFTH FOLLOW-UP DATA

APPENDIX C

GUIDELINES FOR USING SAS WITH NLS-72 DATA

The file provided on the public release tapes include SAS cards and a SAS system file. The SAS System file includes:

1) Fifth Follow-Up Questionnaire Data
2) Fifth Follow-Up flags, weights, and composites

CES AND NORC strongly suggest that all SAS users be aware of the following potential problem areas when using NLS-72 data files via SAS:

1) SAS users should use the '(KEEP-...)' AND '(DROP-...)' options in the 'SET...; 'DATA...;' statement when creating working data files so that unwanted variables are not included in the files. It is faster (but not essential) for variables in the '(KEEP-...)' statement to be listed in the same order as they occur in the main system file. Remember also that the '(KEEP-...)' option does not reorder the variables in the new data set.

2) You may have to delete at least one third of the label cards given in this file because of SAS System limitations at many computer installations. Variables labels are as short as possible in this file, so that more of them can be used simultaneously.

3) The large number of VALUE cards in the PROC FORMAT section requires that a special DD statement be placed just after the //EXEC SAS card to increase the capacity of the format library during a SAS run:

//LIBRARY DD SPACE-(TRK,(25,25,60))

This may not be possible at some computer installations, so it may be necessary to delete some values.

4) When working with large files, it may be necessary to override the default work space with the following DD card:

//WORK DD UNIT-SYSCR,SPACE-(CYL,(40,40))

The //WORK DD card should be placed just after the //EXEC SAS card, (or after the //LIBRARY DD card, if that is included as well).

5) The formats given in the PROC FORMAT step are not permanently associated with each variable. Whenever they are needed for a procedure, it is necessary to include them in a PROC FORMAT step before the procedure that will use them, as shown in the following example:

//EXEC SAS,OPTIONS-'NOGRAPHICS',REGION-4000K
//LIBRARY DD SPACE-(TRK,(25,25,60))
//WORK DD UNIT-SYSCR,SPACE-(TRK,(1000,1000))
//IN01 DD DSN-FU5.SAS,
//     UNIT-SYSDA,
//     DISP-SHR
//SYSIN DD *

PROC FORMAT;

VALUE EDATT86V      01-"SOME H.S."
                    02-"HS DIPLOM"
                    03-"2+ YR VOC"
                    04-"SOME COLL"
                    05-"COLL GRAD"
                    06-"MASTER'S"
                    07-"PHD MD"
                    94-"DON'T KNOW"
                    95-"UNC VERB"
                    96-"MULT RESP"
                    97-"REFUSED"
                    98-"MISSING"
                    99-"LEGIT SKIP"

PROC FREQ DATA-IN01.FU5NLS;
FORMAT EDATT86  EDATT86V.;
TABLES EDATT86;
TITLE EDUCATIONAL ATTAINMENT BY HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1972,
      BY SPRING 1986;

At the end of the formats given in this file, there is a frequency procedure (in comment form) that contains a FORMAT...; statement with every variable for which there is a format. This FORMAT...; statement will save users a lot of time because it can be used in any SAS procedure.

When users create their own formats they should keep in mind that a format for a character variable must have a format name beginning with '$', and that format names must not end in a digit.

6) SAS creates missing values for variables that are not coded (values for variables on the raw data file that are left 'blank'). On the NLS-72 files, responses were left blank for nonparticipants. This could create problems for the SAS user when variables are recoded using the 'IF THEN' and 'ELSE' statements.

7) Another problem with SAS missing values arises when "less than" (LT OR _) and "less than or equal" (LE OR _-) are used. SAS considers missing values to be less than zero. Therefore, "less than" statements may include missing values unintentionally.

8) It is wise to sort all data files by ID (student id) before merging NLS-72 data files. On some NLS-72 files, the student ID variable is not named RTIID and thus should be changed using RTIID-studentid before sorting and then merging.

For very large files, the user may encounter problems when sorting. Various options may be added to the //EXEC SAS to circumvent these problems. A suggested example is given below (consult the SAS manual for descriptions of these options):

//EXEC SAS,OPTIONS-'NODYNALLOC',REGION-1280K,SORT-30

9) It is suggested that the user include the LENGTH statement when creating new variables, in order to save space and computer memory.

10) HEGIS data can be merged to the NLS-72 files by using the FICE codes that are contained on the files.

11) For many tabulations, PROC TABULATE produces the most readable output. The SAS user may use the format statements (provided) for classification variables to produce the row values of tabulate tables.

12) Output from SAS can be downloaded to personal computers for production of final reports. CES uses a SAS PROC that produces standard errors for all estimates. These standard errors together with estimates and sample sizes are then manipulated with various PC software.

13) Use the C.E.S. and N.O.R.C. defined composite and classification variables whenever possible to simplify programming. Some of these variables were copied from the base year through fourth follow-up data, and others were created for the fifth follow-up.

14) SAS and SPSS-X system files are now interchangeable at many computer installations. Contact your own facility to obtain the information necessary to create a SPSS-X file from SAS and vice versa.

WORK EXPERIENCE

In this section, we would like to find out about the jobs you have held, particularly in the period between October 1979 and the present time. Include full-time jobs, part-time jobs, apprenticeships, on-the-job training, military service and so on.

We are interested in learning about the kinds of jobs you have held, the hours you worked and your income from these jobs, the level of your job satisfaction, and the relation of your training and education to your work experience. This information will help us better understand the movement of young people into the world of work and the reasons for changes in job situations.

Next, we would like some information about your children. Please answer these questions for all of your natural, adopted, or stepchildren, whether or not they live with you, and for any foster-care children who are now living with you. There is space for 4 children. Answer first for your natural children, beginning with the oldest (first) child, then the next oldest, and so on. Then go on to the other children (currently living with you) beginning with the oldest. (ANSWER PARTS A, B, C, AND D FOR EACH CHILD)

The following questions ask about current arrangements for the care of your child(ren). All parents should answer these questions, even if you personally do not make the arrangements for your child's or children's care (for example, you are divorced and do not have custody of your child(ren), and the custodial parent makes all child care arrangements). Please give your best estimate in answering the questions below.

PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN:

Question 90

How would you describe the usual child care arrangement(s) for your pre-school child(ren)? (CIRCLE ALL THAT APPLY. FOR EACH ONE CIRCLED, ALSO ANSWER COLUMN A)

Question 105

For the next question, we would like you to think about the people OUTSIDE YOUR HOUSEHOLD to whom you may give money or assistance of some kind and from whom you may also receive money or assistance. These people might be relatives, friends, neighbors, fellow club members, or persons who are special to you. The assistance might be in the form of a loan, gift, or time spent helping. You can think of giving or receiving assistance in three ways:

OCCASIONAL HELP WITH EVERYDAY NEEDS, such as yard work, errands, groceries or cash.

HELP WITH MAJOR ITEMS OR EVENTS THAT CAN BE PLANNED, such as weddings, schooling, or down payment on a house, or long term nursing care.

HELP WITH EMERGENCIES, such as paying for hospital bills, or helping with the care of someone who had a serious illness, or caring for children during a family crisis.

Please use the following table to list the persons OUTSIDE YOUR HOUSEHOLD you have assisted or who have given assistance to you sometime during the last five years. Then write the relationship of the person to you. Finally, MARK THE OVALS to tell which type(s) of help were given or received.
